Fingerpost in churchyard indicating museum and Council offices

We have received permission from Revd Katie to put a fingerpost in the churchyard indicating the new location of the museum and the council offices. We have been waiting to do this work to see how the finances recovered after the building work was completed. HTC is now in a position to do the work. The cost will be £348.48, and this will also cover turning round the fingerposts at the bottom of the town which are currently pointing the wrong way.

Recommendation: that HTC decides whether to put up the fingerpost.
