To consider repainting the Empire steps

The front steps at the Empire were repainted 3 years ago. But they get a lot of use and are also the first thing seen by all customers as they enter the building. They are now in need of painting again, with the same non-slip paint, and edging on the steps.

The cost of repainting is £635 (no VAT) by the same painter as last time. His last quote was well below any others we received.

Recommendation: that HTC agrees to the painting of the Empire steps at £635 to be taken from the budget for the maintenance of the Empire Theatre.
