Finance Report on February

Income and Expenditure

Queens Hall income is in line with the budget, and car park income is well over budget expectations, by almost £12,000. Most income and expenditure are in line with budget plans and all looks well for the rest of the financial year. Salary costs remain the largest expenditure for the council, and these are over budget due to the salary increases and the increase in National Insurance.

The current surplus for the year is £27,552, some of it having already been spent on the equipment for Courtaulds, as agreed. This is looking very healthy, one month before the end of the financial year.

There were no overtime payments in February.

Recommendation: That council notes this report.
