Agenda Item	12

To consider the naming of streets in the Mount Hill development

The developers will be making an application to Braintree District Council shortly, for street naming. They would like to know if the Town Council has any strong preference for road names before they submit the application, though the site is not within the boundary of Halstead. They state that one name is needed. Currently they have the following suggestions for road names:

Gilbert Scott relates to Sir Giles Gilbert Scott who designed Trinity Church

Surrey relates to William Warrene, Lord of the Manor of a large part of Halstead in 1086 and who subsequently became Earl of Surrey

Beuzeville relates to Stephen Beuzeville who purchased Townsford Mill in 1824 and converted it to silk throwing

Recommendation: that councillors choose one of the suggested names, or suggest something more suitable.
